1. The Zsolnay Factory in Pecs and the Drasce Factory in Budapest are producing large quantities of electric switches and heavy current insulators with a capacity of 100 kw.
2. These insulators are being delivered to the Soviet Union. In 1948 the quality of some of these insulators was so bad that the Soviet Union refused to accept them and demanded greatly improved quality.
3. These factories are also producing various types of "technical porcelain" for export.
